COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course introduces the institutional and constitutional structure of government in Canada and its relation to a variety of issues in civil society. Topics include its fundamental framework, the constitution, the core institutions of government and politics, and such contemporary issues as nationalism, regionalism, multiculturalism, and reconciliation. The course offers students an overview of the important pieces of the contemporary system of government in Canada to serve as a basis for debate and discussion of modern political issues, and will make connections between Canadian government institutions and policies and Indigenous peoples and governance.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Prerequisite(s): None

POLI 101 is a fully online course. Students must have access to a computer and Internet connection and be able to use word-processing, presentation, email, and web-conferencing software. Students must have the ability to record video.

EQUIVALENCY OR TRANSFERABILITY

This course is new and its transferability is still being evaluated. Receiving institutions always determine course transferability. Further information and assistance with transfers may be available from the School of Applied Science and Management.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon successful completion of the course, students will be able to:

- Demonstrate knowledge of terms, facts, and concepts related to Canada Government and politics.
- Identify the institutions of government in Canada and their historic interrelationships

- Describe contemporary and emerging political relationships between Indigenous peoples and government
- Demonstrate a broad understanding of Canadian Government and politics
- Analyze and respond to issues, challenges, and opportunities within Canadian political, such as nationalism, regionalism and multiculturalism.

COURSE FORMAT

Fully online (asynchronous with scheduled deliverables) via Yukon University's Learning Management System (Moodle). There are no regular class meetings, but the instructor may schedule online Q&A/check in sessions for students. Although all students will complete the same module of work at the same time, they may log-in and complete the work at any time during the week.

Students are encouraged to use the resources provided in class as tools to support their course work. The instructor will aim to keep the course material interactive and varied.

Email and frequent internet access are an important part of this course. The instructor will communicate through email and Moodle. Using online tools and resources is a required part of this course.

Assessments

Online contributions/activities

Students will participate in discussion posts, mini quizzes, and video responses, and offer feedback on other students' presentations.

Assignments

Students will be responsible for several short, individual assignments totaling 35% of their final grade. The assignments are related to the material covered during the term. They will demonstrate the students' abilities to apply key course concepts.

Late assignment policy – students who require an extension must contact the instructor by email prior to the assignment due date. Without prior approval, outlines, papers and presentations that are turned in late will have 2.5% of the final assignment grade deducted per day. Assignments turned in more than 5 days late will not be accepted. Online contributions must be completed by the due date. Without prior approval, late or incomplete online contributions will receive a zero.

Exams

Mid-term Exam: Students will be assessed on their comprehension of key concepts and themes addressed up to the mid-point of the course. The exam will be posted on Moodle and will be open-book but must be completed individually.

Final Exam: Students will be assessed on their comprehension of key concepts and themes addressed in the entire course. The exam will be posted on Moodle and will be open-book but must be completed individually.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

Students are expected to contribute toward a positive and supportive environment and are required to conduct themselves in a responsible manner. Academic misconduct includes all forms of academic dishonesty such as cheating, plagiarism, fabrication, fraud, deceit, using the work of others without their permission, aiding other students in committing academic offences, misrepresenting academic assignments prepared by others as one’s own, or any other forms of academic dishonesty including falsification of any information on any Yukon University document.

PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is a serious academic offence. Plagiarism occurs when a student submits work for credit that includes the words, ideas, or data of others, without citing the source from which the material is taken. Plagiarism can be the deliberate use of a whole piece of work, but more frequently it occurs when students fail to acknowledge and document sources from which they have taken material according to an accepted manuscript style (e.g., APA, CSE, MLA, etc.). Students may use sources which are public domain or licensed under Creative Commons; however, academic documentation standards must still be followed. Except with explicit permission of the instructor, resubmitting work which has previously received credit is also considered plagiarism. Students who plagiarize material for assignments will receive a mark of zero (F) on the assignment and may fail the course. Plagiarism may also result in dismissal from a program of study or the University.

Please refer to Academic Regulations & Procedures for further details about academic standing and student rights and responsibilities.

ACADEMIC ACCOMMODATION

Reasonable accommodations are available for students requiring an academic accommodation to fully participate in this class. These accommodations are available for students with a documented disability, chronic condition or any other grounds specified in section 8.0 of the Yukon University Academic Regulations (available on the Yukon University website). It is the student's responsibility to seek these accommodations by contacting the Learning Assistance Centre (LAC): LearningAssistanceCentre@yukonu.ca.
