COURSE CALENDAR DESCRIPTION

Introduces beginning writers to the writing of two creative writing genres (varies per term). The study and development of craft, the exploration of voice, and the acquisition of critiquing skills are emphasized.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

In this workshop seminar course, students will write their own original fiction and poetry. In workshops, students will develop their editorial skills through giving and receiving respectful feedback. Class lectures and discussions will consider the work of professional writers from the perspective of craft. Why do writers make the choices they do? How can we borrow their techniques to sharpen our own work?

PREREQUISITES

Prerequisite(s): Six credits of university-level composition and/or literature.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon successful completion of the course, students will be able to

- write original fiction and poetry
- critique written fiction and poetry from an editorial perspective based on the requirements of craft
- revise fiction and poetry as part of an editorial process
- analyse literature from a writer’s perspective and describe the effects of authorial choices such as narrative structure, syntax, and point of view

COURSE FORMAT

This course will consist of one three-hour seminar per week, which will include short lectures and discussion of the writing craft, in-class writing exercises, and writing workshops. During writing workshops, the instructor will facilitate discussion of students’ written assignments. The aim will be to recognize the strengths and possibilities of the piece under discussion, and to offer suggestions for revision. All feedback should be generous and specific, and should be provided in support of both the writer and the piece of writing under discussion.

ASSESSMENTS

Attendance and Participation
Active participation in this course is fundamental to developing a constructive, creative environment and achieving course learning outcomes. For this reason, class participation in the form of contributions to class discussion and completion of in-class writing exercises is worth 20% of the course grade.

Assignments
This course includes three writing assignments. Assignments will normally be discussed in class the week after they are handed in. Photocopies of each assignment for the instructor and for all students in the class will be required to facilitate discussion. As class discussion is frequently based on students’ work, all assignments must be completed and handed in on the due date.

Readings
Reading is integral to the writing process, and this course incorporates a variety of assigned readings by professional writers. In addition, students will be expected to read the work of their fellow students and provide constructive written feedback. All assigned readings and written critiques must be completed before the class in which they are scheduled for discussion.

Final Portfolio
There will be no final examination in this course. Instead, students will submit an end-of-term portfolio consisting of the three required writing assignments, two of which must be revisions. Revisions will be based on in-class discussion and written comments.

ACADEMIC AND STUDENT CONDUCT

Information on academic standing and student rights and responsibilities can be found in the current Academic Regulations that are posted on the Student Services/Admissions & Registration web page.

PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is a serious academic offence. Plagiarism occurs when students present the words of someone else as their own. Plagiarism can be the deliberate use of a whole piece of another person’s writing, but more frequently it occurs when students fail to acknowledge and document sources from which they have taken material. Whenever the words, research or ideas of others are directly quoted or paraphrased, they must be documented according to an accepted manuscript style (e.g., APA, CSE, MLA, etc.). Resubmitting a paper which has previously received credit is also considered plagiarism. Students who plagiarize material for assignments will receive a mark of zero (F) on the assignment and may fail the course. Plagiarism may also result in dismissal from a program of study or the College.

YUKON FIRST NATIONS CORE COMPETENCY

Yukon College recognizes that a greater understanding and awareness of Yukon First Nations history, culture and journey towards self-determination will help to build positive relationships among all Yukon citizens. As a result, to graduate from ANY Yukon College program, you will be required to achieve core competency in knowledge of Yukon First Nations. For details, please see www.yukoncollege.yk.ca/yfnccr.

Reasonable accommodations are available for students requiring an academic accommodation to fully participate in this class. These accommodations are available for students with a documented disability, chronic condition or any other grounds specified in section 8.0 of the Yukon College Academic Regulations (available on the Yukon College website).
