Step 3: Applications Screened by Yukon University Admissions

Completed BSW admission applications are typically screened by Yukon University Admissions within four weeks of receipt. Yukon University Admissions determines if the applications are complete and meet minimum criteria. Applications that meet the admission criteria are forwarded to the BSW Admissions Coordinator for additional review. Applicants who do not meet admission criteria will be notified.

Step 4: BSW Interview

Applicants who meet the admission criteria will be interviewed by program faculty and community-based social workers in April and early May. Applicants must achieve a satisfactory interview score to be accepted to the program. Seats are limited and half the seats are reserved for Indigenous applicants who meet the admission criteria.

Step 5: Decisions about admission

Applicants who were interviewed will be informed by Yukon University Admissions about the outcome of their application.

Step 6: Successful applicants

There is a mandatory orientation session. Registration with the University of Regina, transfer credit and registration in Yukon University social work courses will be discussed at this time.
